THE WASHINGTON CRITIC,

Washington, D. C.

RICHARD H. SYLVESTER, - - Editor WASHINGTON, D. C., DEC. 4, 1885

In consequence of the removal the press upon which Tan Carrie is printed from its present position to the ground floor-a process that will probably occupy a couple of days-we shall be compelled for to-morrow's issue to avail ourselves of facilities extended by the Sanday Gasette and this will necessitate a reduction of one column in the size of the paper. As usual, however, we shall contrive to get in all the news and present to our readers as bright and readable a paper as ever. With the beginning of the week the trouble will be over, and our present eight-column size re-THE PRESIDENCY OF THE SENATE.

It is not to be expected of the Republicans of the Senate that they will s far forego their majority power as to choose a Democrat for the temporary Presidency of that body, nor are we aware that any Democratic Senator desires that they should. Such an arrangement might be consented to, but would never be asked. There is little danger that it will ever be suggested.

Such a startling excess of magnanimity over partisanship would involve a wider departure from past precedent and a greater hazard of future possibilities than the leaders of the grand old party would dare to take, even it they were thus disposed. It would send a cold chill up and down their spinal columns that would in all likelihood result in a melancholy series of political funerals Yet why not?

We really cannot see what great thing the Republicans, with a clear majority on the floor, can expect to accomplish simply by having one of their own number in the presiding officer's chair; nor do we believe that, under the circumstances, an election to the presiding officer's chair carries with it such advantages as render it a position to be coveted by any Republi can who has a Presidential bee in his bonnet.

The chair of the Senate is not, that we are aware of, in the nature of a stepping-stone to the White House. There is no peculiar virtue in the honor that is likely to exert a controlling influence in the next National Convention of the Republican party. It is not a place that either Mr. Edmunds, or Mr. Sherman, or, least of all, Mr. Loran should esteem it a hardship not to get, if they have the higher aspirations with which they are credited.

A great and generous thing, there fore, would it be for the Senate, in the spirit of the Hoar bill to which it has already given its sanction, to provide for possible contingencies before that bill becomes a law, by the election of a Democrat to the chair, which the death of Thomas A. Hendricks has left va cant. Thus would the line of Demo cratic succession, though a Democratic Administration be secured against all mishaps and the voice of the people at the last Presidential election, be justly and faithfully complied with

And who should this Democrat be The answer will leap to the lips of the country-Daniel W. Voorhees of In-

A QUESTION IN HIGH ART. Senator Jonathan Chace of Rhod Island, who always wears a swallowtail coat, wants Senator Evarts of New York elected President pro tem of the Senate because New York's junior Senator "would make such a fine figure in the chair." Senator Chace has probably been paying so much at tention to his extensive cotton mills that he has not had time to closely in spect an authentic diagram of Mr. Evarts, or, if he has, he is possessed of very peculiar ideas as to what constitutes a "fine figure."

There is nothing of the Apollo in Senator Evarts' proportions. He is in fact a walking photograph of one of his own sentences. He is sufficiently long, it is true, and has an abundance of angles, but none of the latter are angles of beauty. He would be impressive in the chair, of course, but the galleries would have to use field-glasses to ascertain all the points of his impressiveness, His celebrated forefinger would be useful in reminding Senators in the immediate vicinity of the chair what we must all come to for that digit is the old original finger of fate. And if by chance the chair which the Honorable and ample David Davis occupied when he was Presiden pro tem should be run in on Mr. Evarts a search expedition would have to be organized to discover the presiding officer when he sat down. We submit to Senator Chace that he should revise his ideas of what a "fine figure" is. MR. HANNA HEARD FROM. We know that the Hon. Bayless W. Hanna would make himself heard, even from the Argentine Republic, where he represents the American Eagle and the State of Indiana. Judge Hanna has been writing home to some of his friends, and the Indi ana press, with a wide-awake journal istic eye to a good thing, has been printing what he wrote. The Judge is greatly pleased with the country, especially with its capital, Buenos Ayres. That city was a "revelation" to him. There is more money there, he says, than in any place that he ever saw; and if he only had some of his Indiana friends with him he would "make them rich." It "is a capital country," he says. "Looks like Iowa.

The soil is very productive." Judge Hanna was evidently wise when he gave up Persia and took the Argentine Republic. He is having more fun where he is than he could have had in all Asia.

But It is evident from his letters that he cannot yet be fully appreciated by the natives, for he says: "I understand sobody, and nobody understands me, o I simply tanke signs."

When Judge Hanna masters the verscular, then will be the time for the scople down there to know him at hi est. His romances will awake the nimble spirit of mirth throughout the cities and savannahs of the Republic. Judge Hanna is de sirous of keeping his friends advised of his movements, for he says in his letter: I will send you a paper containing a full account of my reception."

THE effect of the recent election in Atlanta, at which a majority of voters declare in favor of prohibition, has een quickly felt. In Baltimore last night Mr. Daniel, who was the Vice Presidential candidate on the Prohibi tion ticket at the last national election presided over a meeting which is inended to be the opening of a Southern Prohibition campaign. Speeches were made by a number of prominent pro hibition adherents. Mr. Daniel said that the speakers present were on their way to the South. They were, however, but the advance guard, as others are to follow. The general sentiment of the meeting was that the South is most promising field for the propaga tion of prohibition ideas and should be promptly occupied. There is no use denving that the South has in the emperance movement a new issue The politicians are doing their best to keen the issue out of politics, but their success is somewhat doubtful.

These certainly be tough times for that class of people who either call themselves Reformers with a large R or are so called by their fellow-citizens. In the Philadelphia councils yesterday two of the members of that august body had a characteristic tilt. They were Councilmen Monroe and Johnson. That venerable old "one-word-broughton another" went along as usual until finally Mr. Johnson so far forgot himself as to call Mr. Monroe a Reformer. That was more than Mr. Monroe could stand, and, with righteous indignation. he exclaimed : "It's a lie. I won't let you make any such charge against me.' He even added this: "If you are no careful in your language I'll pull your ears." Such little pleasantries are liable to bring further contumely or the Reform movement. When a citi zen gets mad because he is called a Re former something must be wrong with the Reform.

REV. DR. BURCHARD, who made a nighty reputation by hauling alliteration into politics by the ears, has found an imitator in England. Mr. Chamber lain, the Radical leader, made a speech in Leicester yesterday in which he said that the defeat of the Liberals in the boroughs was due to five P's-"Priests. Publicans, Parsons, Parnellites and Protectionists," which is a combination almost as inconcelyable as it is in ongruous and strikingly illustrative of the violent transitions through which England is passing on her progres towards Democratic Institutions.

THE esteemed Baltimore American

There seems to be a seitled purpose in Vashington to discriminate against Baltimore. Itis has long been the case, and if any reason existed for it heretofore, there should be none under the recent Administration.

Since Baltimore has stopped swinlling Washington by something that it alled an "Oriole" such kicks as this of the American are necessary to re mind us that there is such a place as Baltimore. For fear that our readers may have forgotten it we will mention the fact that Baltimore can be reached y both the B. & O. and the B. & P

THERE are twenty-five monuments the First Napoleon still standing in the various cities of France, which would suggest that Mr. John C. Ropes the Boston lawyer, is not altogether wrong in his recently published pane gyrle of the Emperor. Certain is it hat the Napoleonic idea is not extinct. It is to a great extent the basis, as i was the inspiration, of Republicanism in France.

THE fourth-class postmasters are go ng to organize an association to look after their interests and secure the re dress of grievances. As a good many of the fourth-class postoffices are still in the hands of Republicans it is prob able that the latter at least look upor General Adlal E. Stevenson as a re markably well-developed grievance.

Some of our esteemed contemporarie seem inclined to poke fun at young. Theo baw because he was taken from his palace o the Calcutta steamer in a bullock cart. This is wrong and displays the ignorance of the aforesaid esteemed contemporaries. In Burmah the bullock cart is the most fash able of vehicles and is patronized by the nobility and gentry. A man with an au faeart drawn by fine bullocks is certain of an tree into the very first circles and triangles of society. The bullocks are travelers, too, and possess a protuberance of the shoulders. This enables them to fairly hump themselves. Theebaw lost nothing of his pres tige by riding in a bullock cart.

MR. L. MARTINEZ, one of the editors of El Comercio del Valle, the Spanish-American paper at St. Louis, does not believe that Spain will become a Republic in the near future, because the people are not educated up to it. Neither does be take any stock in the Carlists. A constitutional monarchy of liberal and progressive ideas is what the people want.

MID-AFTERNOON. It is mid afternoon. Long, long ago
Rach morning glory sheathed the slender horn It blowso gaily on the hills of more. And fabited in the noontide's fervid glow.

Gone are the dewdrops from the rose's heart— Gone with the freshness of the early hours. The sours that filled the air with silver showers. The lovely dreams that were of morn a part. Yet still in tender light the garden lies: The warm sweet winds are whisparing soft and low; Srown bees and leatterflies fift to and frog The peace of Heaven is in the o'erarching akles.

And here be four-o'-clocks, just opening wide Their many-colored petals to the sun. As glad to tive as if the evening dua' Were far away, and morning had not diod. - [Mrs. Julia C. R. Dorr.

"The beauty, intelligence and fashion of Washington were splendidly represented at Herzog's, forming a crowded andience for the "Mikado." Delight was universal, applause tremendous, and many were the encores. How could affairs have been otherwise with such an appreciative assemblage and so capable a representation as that of the National Ideal Opera Company? Nanki Poo-Mr. Gerard Coventry-bore well his character throughout, and was in excellent voice. Ke Ko-Mr. J. R. Onkley-could not have been better rendered. Yum Yum-Miss Agnes Earle-was beautiful and charming. The entire opera, indeed, was admirably rendered, and liberal praise given to every participant. Seenery, settings, and wardrobes were surpassingly rich."
